MEDICINAL.

LOVE DIES.

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox says there comes a time in the course of married love when "the thrill goes out of the hand-clasp and the kiss at times, and it is then that husband and wife may be susceptible to other magnetic personalities." The reason for this condition of affairs is often the fault of the husband, but how often is it not due to the wife's nervousness and irritability due to some trouble with the organs peculiarly feminine—the wife under such circumstances feels languid and spiritless—she suffers perhaps from headache and sleeplessness.

Backed up by over a third of a century such circumstances recip tangular and addressites—she suffers perhaps from headache and sleeplessness.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Plerce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Agreat deal of sickness may be saved by keeping on hand a copy of Dr. Pierce's thousand-page illustrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." Sent free, paper-bound, for twenty-one one-cent stamps, to pay cost of mailing only; or cloth-bound for thirty-one stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 65; Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Constitution and a bilious attack go handin-hand. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a sure and speedy cure for both. Tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. Nothing else is "just as good."

THE McCUE CASE.

J. Samuel McCue confidently expects to get a new trial, and declares that if the Court of Appeals decides his way he does not intend to try his chances again in Charlottesville. The next again in Charlottesville. The next time he will ask for a change of venue. Great stress seems to be laid by the defense upon the fact that certain jurors during the trial were permitted to read the newspapers, although the evidence shows that none of them read beyond the headliness, and each juror testified that he had observed to the letter his oath upon the subject.

Judge Morris at the beginning of the trial gave the members of the jury per-trial gave the members of the jury per-mission to read newspapers, provided they would avoid the report of the trial as far as possible—that is, all except the headlines. This they did.

It is interesting to note that this per-

It is interesting to note that this permission was granted in open court, in the presence of the accused and his counsel, and without objection or exception by them at the time. It is the opinion now of certainly two of the ablest lawyers at the Charlottesville bar, who had no connection with the to who it was who committed the crime. To many there never has been a satisfactory explanation of why the water was turned on in the bathtub, and why it was that the tub, which requires fully

Massie, a part of which was to the effect that while walking in his yard across the street from the McCue residence, and a short time before the news THE GERMAN CO-OPERATIVE one rush out of the lane which goes down beside the McCue residence and up the street in the direction of Dr. of the crime spread abroad, he saw some Frank McCue's home.

The theory referred to is to this ef-and That if the murderer was J. Samuel McCue, as the jury and people be-lieve, he had beaten and choked his Offers the best inducements to whoever wants to build or buy a home, pay off old mortine to build or buy a home, pay off old mortine the bathtub and turned on the Mr. S. Frederick Smith, gages or improve their property. LOANS water, either to give the impression that are made payable in monthly instalment, she had committed suicide or to drown preparing to retire.

This conversation, she said, took place at the 'phone. It is believed that what she took for the phone bell was the doorbell and that Dr. McCue's brief answer, "All right," was made to his brother at the door.

Upon returning home, so runs the hy-pothesis, McCue found his wife not dead, but outside of the tub, which helps to account for the wet condition of the bathroom floor. Then followed the appeal which Charles Perry heard—"Do not kill me; I am going to die anyhow'
—and, then, too, followed the gunshot which put an end to all.

If this story be true, it was during the brief time which McCue took to go to his brother's home for pretended aid, or for whatever purpose, that Charles Skinner heard the crying for from three to five minutes. It is held to be improbable that a man in a murderous frenzy would have permitted the crying of his victim for a period even so long as this. The Charlottesville correspondent of Richmond New-Leader writes; Although the public at last knows the attitude of the jury in the McCue murder case, the crime itself still is shrouded in a certain degree of mystery which per-haps will never be satisfactorily explained. For instance, not a single witness during the trial was able to explain how Mrs. McCue's body got into the bath tub or why the hot water spiggot had been turned on. Many advanced the theory that Mrs. McCue retreated to the bath room either te lave her first wounds bath-room either telaveher first wounds or to escape her assailant, and was pur-sued and fatally shot there. Others think she was slain in or near her cham-ber and dragged to the bath-room. But neither theory satisfies the inquirer who asks about the hot water.

Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from case, that a failure to except at the time cures any error, if error there really was, in the liberty granted by the indeed, in the liberty granted by the liber Judge.

One of the professors of law at the University of Virginia is strongly of the opinion that the Supreme Court will find no error in the instructions allowed by Judge Morris. "They were," said he, "extremely fair and liberal to the accused. Apparently every doubt was solved to the solve of the liberal to the scused. Apparently every doubt was solved to the liberal to the scused. ed. Apparently every doubt was solved in favor of the prisoner, as it should have been, and the wisest precaution seemed to have been taken to give the defense to excuse for an appeal on the ground of unfair or improper instructions."

The belief prevails in Charlottesville that the McCue murder mystery, so far as details are concerned, yet remains unsolved, although there is little doubt as "Sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks restored".

"Sparkling eyes and rosy checks restored by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers," so writes S. P. Moore, of Nacogdoches, Tex. A cer ain cure for biliousness, constipation, etc. Small pill—casy to take—easy to act. Sold by all druggists.
